300,000 PRISONERS TAKEN BY GERMANS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, via Amsterdam, Aug. 2.—With more than 300,000 prisoners in their possession as a result of the fighting of the last month, the Austro-German forces in Poland are driving through the Russian front a wedge that threatens to cripple, if not destroy, the Czar's main armies. There is now going on in Poland one of the most thrilling military races ever witnessed. The Russians are trying to reach Brest Litovsk, 120 miles east-southeast of Warsaw, with their forces intact except for the rear guard troops whose sacrifice is necessary in order to save the main bodies. The Austro-German forces are fighting to force their way northeastward from the Vistula river front. The Germans have taken Cholm, 68 miles from Brest Litovsk. Their cavalry is reported to be plunging northward on the left bank of the Bug river. If the Germans arrive from Brest Litovsk in advance of the retreating Russians, the Czar's armies will be in a dangerous predicament. Berlin military critics assert that even if the Russians succeed in withdrawing their main forces to the sheltering fortresses of Brest Litovsk, they will be unable to hold the Bug river front because of the great flanking movement now being made by Gen. von Buelow in the Baltic provinces. The capture or evacuation of Kovno will necessitate the abandonment of Brest Litovsk and Grodno or result in the surrounding of the entire Russian army in a district absolutely untenable with the lines of communication cut. The most optimistic German observers predict the almost complete annihilation of the Russian armies, the capture of the Russian capital and peace proposals from the Russian government within the next six months. Others more conservative claim that Russia's fighting strength will be destroyed for many months and that before the Czar can again become a dangerous factor in the war the German legions in the west will be able to win a victory there that will make their ultimate triumph certain.

GERMAN REPLY LAST OF MONTH

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 2.—Germany will send no reply to the latest note of the Wilson administration dealing with the submarine warfare before the latter part of this month, if at all. Ambassador Gerard has so informed Secretary of State Lansing. In the meanwhile it is expected here that there will be an attempt by Germany to renew the unofficial negotiations, previously rejected by President Wilson, to see whether an amicable agreement on the points in dispute cannot be reached. While this is going on, Germany will stand by and will watch with interest the exchanges between the British government and Washington on the question of the freedom of the seas. It was expected here that the British note which is to supplement last week's memorandum will be handed to Ambassador Page in London within the next 24 hours. British diplomatic officials here declare that the note will make every plain the British contention that the allies are entirely within their rights in holding up all shipments destined to neutral countries unless they have an iron-clad guarantee that they will not eventually reach German soil. The United States, it was today learned on authority will positively refuse to accept any such views. It will in effect tell Great Britain that it cannot change the rules of the war game so far as neutrals are concerned, while the game is in progress. And, as was the case in exchanges with Germany, Great Britain will be informed that the United States stands absolutely on the letter of international law and her treaty rights will decline to recognize that any of the belligerents have the authority to interfere with her commerce.

STRIKE IN ILION ARMS FACTORY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Utica, Aug. 2.—Word from Ilion, 12 miles east of this city, where the big plant of the Remington Arms Company is located, at 10:30 today was to the effect that a strike had been precipitated among Remington employees by a dispute over wages. The employees were granted an eight hour day simultaneously with the recent strike of Remington U. M. C. employees in Bridgeport, Conn., but it is understood the wages of the Ilion employees have not proven satisfactory. The Remington Arms Company's Ilion plant is engaged on extensive war contracts for the allies.

FRANCE REAFFIRMS MONROE DOCTRINE

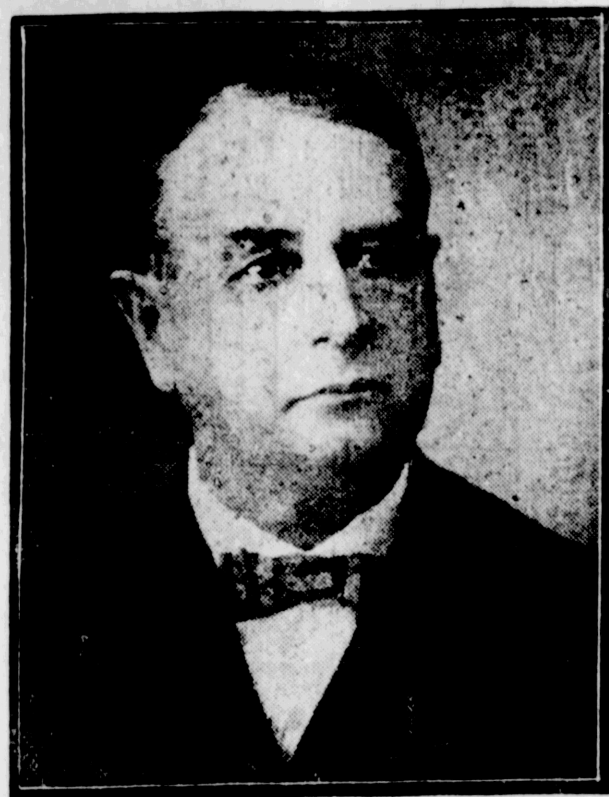

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 2.—France has reaffirmed her acceptance of the Monroe doctrine. That was the interpretation officially placed today on her action in landing a guard of marines for the French legation at Port au Prince only after asking and receiving permission so to do from the United States government. The result may be far reaching. Diplomats today pointed out that the action of the French republic means that the supreme police power of the United States on this hemisphere has once more been endorsed by France. And, in doing so, she has taken a position of strategic strength, not only to secure proper redress for the outrages against her national honor by the Haitians, but also to demand that the United States see that French interests are protected in all forthcoming developments in Mexico. This latter may prove a serious problem to the Wilson administration when the time comes for it to enforce its new views and policies south of the Rio Grande. Although Rear Admiral Caperton has reported that so far conditions in Haiti are quiet, the navy department is ready to rush further reinforcements to him if needed. The marines and bluejackets now on the way from Philadelphia will be available as will the battleship Connecticut, not later than Thursday. In the meanwhile the forces of Caperton have been instructed to maintain their ground and to protect all foreign interests at any cost. So soon as he gets his additional men, Rear Admiral Caperton is expected to begin the work of tranquillizing the Black republic. Officials declared today that there was no doubt that the stay of the American forces in Haiti would be protracted. It is understood that the president has decided that in order that foreign complications shall be avoided, the American armed forces shall not be withdrawn until a stable government has been established, even though it is necessary to retain the Americans there for an indefinite period. If necessary the entire Haitian civilian populace will be forcibly disarmed and then the factional leaders will be ordered to select a provisional government which all can support.

RUSSIANS ADMIT GERMAN ADVANCES

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Petrograd, Aug. 2.—Abandonment by the Russians of the Lublin-Cholm railway and the occupation of Cholm by German troops were admitted at the war office today. It was stated that the railroad had served its purpose and that efforts to hold back the Germans along the Lublin-Cholm front would result only in loss of life, considered by Grand Duke Nicholas to be unnecessary under the "present circumstances." The claims of the Russians that the Vistula army has been extricated from the flanking drives of the Austro-German armies were reiterated today. All the Petrograd newspapers prominently display this announcement by Minister of War Polivanov in the Duma yesterday afternoon. "We will perhaps yield to the enemy a portion of the Warsaw region in order to insure our final victory, falling back to positions where the Russian army can prepare for a resumption of the offensive." In discussing further the military situation, M. Polivanov asserted that the economic position of Russia remained unshaken and that for that reason the nation could maintain war for years. The military critics assert that the utterances of the war minister are ample proof that Russia need fear no disaster and that it needs only to await the opportune time to crush German militarism. At the same time they point out that the renewed German offensive on the Niemen river front is a present danger. Latest reports from the front indicate that the Teutonic troops are trying to cross the Niemen between Kovno and Grodno in order to isolate these fortresses and prevent any interference from their garrisons with the operations in the Baltic provinces. The situation along the Niemen and in the Shavli region is being more closely watched than any of the other districts. As a result of complaints from some sections of the Russian public that the failure of the allies to take the offensive in the west had left the Czar's army to bear the brunt of the recent fighting, the following statement was issued at the war office today: "The dispatch of large German reinforcements from France to the Russian front began in the fourth week of July, when Field Marshal von Mackensen's army was being severely shaken in the Vistula valley and the battle on the Narew became long drawn out. Each Russian success compelled the enemy to withdraw a fresh force from the west front, thus creating conditions favorable for operations by the allies." The statement was issued without comment, but was taken to mean that the French and British were about to launch their long expected general offensive in the west.

HON. JOHN J. LINSON DIED THIS MORNING

Leading Lawyer for Many Years
Prominent in Political, Social and Professional Life Dies After a Long Illness—Sketch of His Career.
Ex-State Senator John J. Linson died at his home, No. 113 Fair street, at six o'clock this morning, in his sixty-fifth year. His death was not unexpected as he had been failing rapidly for several days. He became seriously ill while attending a meeting of the directors of the National Ulster County Bank on July 13, and was removed to his home, since when his condition had grown steadily weaker. Ex-Senator Linson's illness began nearly three years ago. He was stricken with paralysis on October 2, 1912, while he was a candidate for Justice of the supreme court. For several months his condition was serious but he recovered sufficiently to take a trip to Florida later and sometime after his return to Kingston he resumed his office practice and later appeared in court as trial counsel in the trial of cases. For some time after he became able to visit his office he was accustomed to walk between his house and office, but during the past year he was conveyed daily between his home and office in his automobile. His illness on July 13 was announced at the time as due to the excessive heat, and not the result of a paralytic stroke. He recovered consciousness after being removed to his home and subsequently was enabled to receive visitors. Few lawyers in Ulster county have led a more active life and have acquired a wider reputation in their profession. As trial counsel he was sought for eagerly and for many years he enjoyed a large practice. He was born at Mongaup Valley, Sullivan county, November 29, 1850, and was the son of John J. Linson and Emily Fidelia Jordan, his wife. He was educated in the Mongaup school and at the Monticello Academy and later attended and was graduated from the State Normal School at Albany. Later he taught school in Sullivan county and afterwards at Monticello took up the study of law in the office of the late Judge Nevins. While he was studying law he was employed part of the time as a compositor in the office of the Monticello Watchman, and the experience he gained there he always considered was most valuable. In January, 1872, he was admitted to the bar and practiced at Monticello. He removed to Kingston in 1876 and formed a partnership with the late Judge Augustus Schoonmaker, under the firm name of Schoonmaker & Linson. Judge Schoonmaker had served one term as county judge and had been active in Democratic politics for a number of years. Senator Linson's pleasing personality gained a host of friends for him and he became interested in the politics of the county. The law partnership of Schoonmaker & Linson continued until after five years ago, since when Senator Linson and Mr. Van Buren each continued his own individual practice. After his retirement from the State Senate, he formed a partnership with Senator Jacob A. Cantor and Eugene Van Schoick, both of New York city, under the name of Cantor, Linson & Van Schoick. The firm conducted an extensive business in New York city and was continued for several years, but Senator Linson during that time retained his offices and practice in Kingston. From 1883 to 1887, Senator Linson served as corporation counsel of Kingston. He was elected to the State Senate and served from 1888 to 1891, both inclusive. During his term as senator, he was a close personal friend of Governor Hill, at whose behest he prepared a number of the administration measures which were introduced in the legislature. Among these bills were several relating to ballots and elections, a change in the form of ballot being made at this time as the result of a statewide agitation which favored the abolition of the individual candidate ballots which had been in use for many years. After his retirement from the senate in 1892 he was appointed a member of the Statutory Revision Commission by Governor Flower, and he served as a member of that commission for three years. The commission was entrusted with a revision and consolidation of the statutes of the state and its work was of considerable importance. His familiarity with the statutes led to his appointment by Governor Morton in 1895 as a member of the Commission to Recommend Changes in Legislative Procedure and he served on that commission for one year. At the time of the split in the Democratic party in 1896, following the nomination of William J. Bryan for president at the Chicago National Convention, Senator Linson affiliated himself with the Palmer and Buckner wing of the party which was in favor of the gold standard as opposed to the free silver propaganda promulgated by Bryan, and he was active in organizing what was known as the Gold Democrats. This activity led to his candidacy for the nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court in 1898, when a justice was elected to succeed Judge Alton B. Parker, who had been elected Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals in 1897. The most aggressive part of the contest was conducted in Ulster county. The Bryan element of the party was in active control of the party in the Third Judicial District, however, and Judge Betts, who had been an active supporter of Bryan, was nominated and elected. When a successor to Judge Betts was to be elected in 1912, Senator Linson became a candidate for the Democratic nomination. He was designated by the Judicial District Committee in place of Roscoe Irwin of this city, who also had been a candidate, and was nominated in the Democratic primary. A vote for him in the prohibition primary in Green county resulted in his also becoming the prohibition nominee, and he was a candidate of both parties in the election. During the height of the campaign on October 2, he was stricken with paralysis, and was confined to his home for many months. He was defeated in the election by Judge Hasbrouck, who was the nominee of the Republican and Progressive parties.

When the Ashokan condemnation proceedings were begun in 1907, Senator Linson was designated by William B. Ellison, then corporation counsel of New York city, to conduct the proceedings and his appointment was continued by Francis Key Pendleton when he became corporation counsel. Senator Linson conducted the proceedings for Sections 1 to 7, and Sections 12 and 13. Senator Linson was highly regarded for his sound judgment and thorough knowledge of the law. He was careful in the preparation of cases and most thorough in all his trial work. As an advocate he was a clear and logical reasoner and a fluent talker. He possessed an active mind which was quick to grasp a complicated situation and unravel its tangles. He was extremely methodical in his work and his habits and possessing an evenly balanced temperament, he refused to be swayed or swayed by the unexpected annoyances which often are met with in the performance of daily work. He possessed considerable oratorical ability and his public addresses were prepared with great care. His opinions were expressed in clear and vigorous language and his meaning was unmistakable. Since his organization, he had been a trustee and treasurer of the Kingston City Library Association, in whose formation he was actively interested. He was also one of the organizers of the Kingston Club, and had been a trustee and officer at various times. For a number of years he was a member of the Reform Club of the city of New York. Socially, he was a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, Free and Accepted Masons; Mt. Horeb Chapter, No. 52, Knights Templar; C. S. Clay Lodge, No. 528, I. O. F., and formerly was a member of Franklin Lodge, No. 37, Knights of Pythias. He was also a member of Wiltwyck Hose Company.

For a number of years he was vice president of the National Ulster County Bank, in whose management he took an active part, and was also a trustee of the Kingston Savings Bank. He was attorney for both banks and conducted all their legal proceedings for many years. Last winter Senator Linson was elected president of the Ulster County Bar Association, a position which he held at the time of his death. He was also a member of the American Bar Association, New York State Bar Association and New York City Bar Association.

Senator Linson was married in Monticello on October 16, 1872, to Ida Mapledoram, who died February 23, 1902. Four children were born to them: Ernest J. Linson, Harold M. Linson, and John J. Linson, Jr., all of this city, and Dr. Kenneth K. Linson of Woodhaven, Long Island. He is also survived by his step-mother, Mrs. John J. Linson, of Brooklyn; two sisters, Miss Grace Linson, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. James B. Hodgkins, of Rutherford, N. J.; and two brothers, Washington F. Linson, of Brooklyn, and Harry W. Linson, of Shrewsbury, N. J.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, No. 113 Fair street, on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock and will be private. The service will be conducted by the Rev.

Dr. R. C. Dodds, pastor of the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Church, in which denomination Senator Linson was reared. The interment will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Friends wishing to look upon the face may do so at his home on Tuesday evening between the hours of seven and nine o'clock.

TURKS ACTIVE AGAINST ALLIES

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Constantinople, via Berlin, wireless, Aug. 2.—Turkish troops have taken the offensive against the allies on Gallipoli peninsula and penetrated the enemy's trenches near Sed-el-Bahr, the war office announced today. The offensive movement was launched on Saturday and in their first assaults the Ottoman forces captured many prisoners, together with rifles and quantities of war munitions. Latest reports from the front state that hard fighting is still in progress. The allies' warships have opened fire upon the trenches captured by the Turks. A large Russian torpedo boat is reported to have been sunk by Turkish destroyers in the Black Sea.

Joe said when arraigned before the bar of justice that he had taken the coat and at the time did not know whether it was his or not. He had later sold it to a second hand clothing dealer in Rondout for fifty cents. The coat was later recovered. In order to hear more evidence in the case it was held open until later in the day.

NEW NOTE TO BE SENT TO MEXICO

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 2.—First hand stories of the conditions of anarchy which prevail in Mexico were to be related to Secretary of State Lansing today. Arnold Shanklin, forced to leave Mexico City because of differences with the Brazilian minister, who is representing the interests of this government there, was scheduled to tell his story to Lansing. And it was confidently believed that so soon as his report had been reduced to writing and sent to President Wilson, the way would be cleared for the new note that is to be sent to Carranza and Villa in the near future. This letter will be in every respect but name a ultimatum. It will order them either to reconcile their differences and agree upon a provisional government or get out. With Carranza again in control of Mexico City the administration was working today to get food supplies to the capital. Consul Silliman at Vera Cruz has been ordered to insist that all food now waiting transit on the docks in that city be forwarded without regard to the movement of the Carranza military forces. This will prevent an immediate renewal of famine conditions even though control of the capital should again shift. Meanwhile the state department was working its wires to the border endeavoring to secure confirmation of the reports from Nogales that General Obregon and Turbe were to desert Carranza and to assist Felipe Angeles in organizing a new revolution which was to have been the support of Villa as military commander in chief. So far the officials have only heard the press reports of this supposed movement and are inclined to discredit it as "border news." If it should prove true, however, officials admit it would seriously complicate the situation.

EASTLAND DEATH LIST NOW 982

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, Aug. 2.—Divers went to work early today in the submerged hull of the death ship Eastland, trying to extricate a pile of bodies—believed to be at least 50—which were tangled in a mass of wrecked machinery. Three bodies that were taken out yesterday were identified today, making a total of 838 identified dead and two unidentified. The missing list contained the names of 142 persons today, making the possible death list total 982. When the various investigations of the Chicago river catastrophe were started on their second week today it was evident that Federal Judge Landis intended that the federal grand jury should hold the high cards. The investigation by Secretary Redfield's board was hampered by the Landis order that no witnesses under subpoena to testify before the federal grand jury should be examined before any other investigating body. Secretary Redfield announced today, however, that his inquiry would proceed in spite of the federal court's action. The work of raising and uprighting the overturned Eastland was temporarily halted today while divers worked at tearing away the wreckage which is imprisoning the pile of bodies in the hold of the steamer.

A Fighting Tailor.
Edward Margolin went to work for Isidore O. Feldstine, the tailor on upper Broadway, on Friday morning and on Saturday he claimed he was assaulted with a broom stick by his employer whom he had arrested charged with assault in the third degree and the trial was held on Saturday afternoon before Acting Recorder William D. Brinnier, Jr., with the result that Feldstine was sentenced to three months in the Ulster county jail and sentence was suspended pending his good behavior. According to Margolin's story, he went to work that Friday and Saturday morning he asked for his wages and received part of the amount due him. When he asked for the remainder he claimed that Feldstine picked up a broom stick and hit him on the arms and hands with it and that Feldstine also struck him with his fist in the face. Feldstine claimed that Margolin hit him first.

BRITISH NOTES JUSTIFY ALL ACTS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 3.—Great Britain takes sharp issue with the American position that she is illegally interfering with the commerce of the United States. She has sent to the state department three notes couched along similar lines. In them she defends the London order in council, the supplementary note received today, which it had been supposed, modified the note of last week, and "took the teeth out of the order in council," does no such thing. It was learned on the highest authority that the British foreign office justifies every act of its naval commanders in detaining vessels loaded with American products and diverting them into British ports so that their cargoes could be passed on by the British prize courts despite the fact that they are consigned to importers in neutral countries. At very great length the British foreign office reviews the trade records compiled by the department of commerce here in Washington. From them it is pointed out that the bulk of the exports that have been sent to Holland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway have in reality been intended to reach German sources. And the British blockade directed against Germany is defended as a proper act of war and one that is entirely justified by the precedents established by the U. S. government itself during the civil war. In addition she questions the propriety of our caveat intended to protect our rights in prize court proceedings. Secretary of State Lansing stated today the text of these notes will be made public next Wednesday morning. He said that this time had been fixed by the British government itself. In this connection the secretary stated that he could not answer any questions about the notes—they are three in number, because the British government had asked that the state department withhold comment on them until Wednesday.

Although the secretary would not say so there is no doubt that official circles are greatly disappointed over the uncompromising attitude adopted by the British government. It had been hoped that concessions would be made, but it now seems certain that the British government will fight against any letting down of the bars to American trade that would benefit her enemies in the slightest degree.

Copies of the three notes are to be sent to President Wilson at Cornish without delay. Because of the position England has assumed, it is now certain that another definite and strong protest will be sent forward without delay reaffirming the position of the United States that the British order in council is in defiance of international law and a violation of England's obligations to the U. S.

One of the three notes, it was known, dealt solely with the seizing of the American ship Nechez by the British. She was seized when she attempted to bring back a cargo of goods purchased in Belgium by Americans and sent to a prize court. On July 17 the U. S. sent a note of protest against this seizure, arguing the London government could not hold up shipments from German controlled territory—Belgium now being under German rule—neither could Great Britain stop goods paid for by Americans before March 1.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—They Didn't Figure On Father's Capacity.

Not "Dry," Thirsty

KANSAS has in force every measure that man can devise to prohibit the use of liquor. It is not only "dry," but a very thirsty state, as statistics will show.

In Shawnee county (very "dry") 95,561 quarts of strong liquor were purchased for individual use during the month of September, 1913. Of this amount 90,662 quarts were received in Topeka, a city of 45,000 and the capital of the state—just half a gallon for each man, woman and child. In Tecumseh, 100 population, the express agent reported, according to law, that 1,627 quarts were received during September, 1913, or 48 gallons to each person during the year.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS.

1293—A Charming Group of Bonnets.

For "little" girls there is nothing more attractive and becoming than a "bonnet" and in the three styles here shown one will find new and attractive features. The models are all easy to develop, and will look equally well in lawn, mull, chiffon, batiste, crepe, silk, velvet, corduroy, poplin, repp or cloth.

No. 1 shows a plain style with gathered head or bonnet portion. This in poplin or soft silk, or in crepe de chine, would be nice, a tiny ruche of mull could be set in under the front edge, and the strings of material or ribbon would hold the bonnet securely in place. For No. 2, one could select lawn or batiste for summer, with facing of embroidery or edging, and for cold weather, velvet, or corduroy or a combination of silk and either of these materials, with perhaps a finish of fur or braid would be suitable. This style is also good for cloth, cashmere, bedford cord or poplin. For No. 3 the same materials are attractive that one would use for the other styles. The scalloped facing on this is nice for embroidery, and the model is a good one for lawn or pique. The patterns are cut in 3 sizes: 6 months, 1 and 2 years. A one year size will require 1/4 yd. for No. 1 of 30 inch material, 1 1/4 yards for No. 2 of 20 inch material and 3/4 yard of 20 inch material for No. 3.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

HOME RULE HUMBLED GETS HARD SLAM

The Albany Argus contains the following account of the debate in the Constitutional Convention on Friday relative to the proposed amendment declaring the education of children to be a state function, the control of which never should be parted with by the state:

"There was a short debate upon the education article amendment to continue the supervision and control of the education of children as a state function in the Constitutional Convention yesterday in which Judge Clearwater upheld the proposition and in the course of his remarks, replying to Senator Robert F. Wagner's question whether it would not impair the idea of complete home rule for cities, said: 'If there be before this convention or its committees a tenuous, diaphanous or elusive idea it is this very idea of home rule for cities, which, so far as I am able to ascertain has never been able to approach anything like exactness of expression.' Again in another part of his speech he said: 'Does not the state look after the inmates of its state-prisons, its insane and all other dependents. And should it not look after the education of its children? There has never been a time when the State was willing to surrender, or should have surrendered a State function to any municipality no matter how eager it was for home rule. And the difficulty is in this worship of the new gods of efficiency, economy and home rule there is some danger that in our enthusiasm, shall I say hysteria? We shall be carried beyond the bounds of common sense.'"

In speaking generally of the subject of retaining the supervision and control of education in the State Judge Clearwater said: "It is the policy of this convention to remedy such evils as our past political history has shown exist if they are susceptible of amendment by the Constitutional convention. The object of this amendment regarding education is to place in the Constitution beyond the reach of the Legislature, beyond the reach of these communities who in their aspiration for home rule bid fair to set up a system of local self government unequalled in this country; a provision which will forever prevent the perversion or diminution of the education of the children of this State by anyone." The entire Tammany Hall contingent in the Convention was lined up against the proposition.

A Novel Prescription.

The celebrated Dr. Abernethy, who lived more than 100 years ago, not only loathed circumscription in others, but avoided it himself. The Rev. Dr. Tuckerman of New England went to London for his health, where he consulted Dr. Abernethy and, oblivious of scowls and jerks of the body, expatiated on the importance of health to him, as the pastor of "a little parish in Chelsea, Mass.," until the physician lost his patience completely and cut him short with:

"No matter about your little parish; go home and build a barn!"

And now comes the proof of the crusty doctor's cleverness as a diagnostician. Although inclined at first to resent the abrupt and unsympathetic dictum, Dr. Tuckerman followed the advice and found it perfectly adapted to his case.

He got plenty of outdoor exercise and a mechanical employment that occupied his mind. When the barn was finished his health was restored.—Youth's Companion.

High Explosive Shells.

High explosive shells are strong steel cases with a fuse, usually placed in the base. The charge employed may be either lyddite, which is a preparation of picric acid—or trinitrotoluol. The metal in the shell is fairly thick. The explosion is very violent, and has a thoroughly destructive effect upon anything near the point where the shell explodes—concrete, walls, entanglements, steel shields for the trenches or for guns.

Shrapnel are quite different projectiles and are serviceable against infantry in the open or lightly entrenched. They are thin steel cases containing a very small charge of low or moderate power explosive, which opens the cases and liberates a large number of bullets in them. These cover an oval area as they scatter and kill unprotected men. Shrapnel are useless against fortified positions, strongly built houses or deep and well planned intrenchments.—Pearson's.

Looking Through a Periscope.

It is an experience to glance through a periscope of a submarine when submerged. It is also something that needs getting accustomed to before any distinct image can be made out. The first thing that strikes the novice is the extraordinarily wide range of vision. The whole outline of a vessel can be clearly made out, though the ship may be comparatively close at hand, while farther away the ocean can be swept to a very considerable extent. Those who have been accustomed to submarines since their early days state that vast improvements have been made in periscopes lately over the former patterns, when the view was very restricted. Submerged watchers were then often puzzled to know whether it was the hull of a ship or a portion of the coast they could see.—London Standard.

Age of Lost Chivalry.

"I see," said Mrs. Blinks, "that a woman is going to buy a seat on the stock exchange, and I don't see why some of those horrid men don't get up and give her theirs."

Sold!

"What makes you think this story would be particularly interesting to the readers of a woman's magazine?" "Well, it's all about men."—Judge.

Presents the Supreme Youthful Emotional Star,

Blanche Sweet

"STOLEN GOODS"

By Margaret Turnbull. Miss Sweet is acknowledged to be the most magnetic and sympathetic of all screen stars. This is positively her masterpiece. A drama that will tug at your heart strings from beginning to end—but which ends happily just the same.

A good many women seem to think that Fels-Naptha is just soap, and use it as they would any other soap. This is like paying someone to do your wash and then doing it yourself.

does all the hard work for you. The naptha in combination dissolves the grease and loosens the dirt—don't have to hard rub.

Just as wonderful for all household cleaning.

Poor Middle Child!

Middle children are to be pitied for being condemned to be constantly made over out of the luckier eldest's outgrown raiment. How can Tommy be sure he is Tommy, when he is always walking around in Johnny's shoes? Or Polly, grown to girlhood, ever find her own heart, when all her life it has beaten under Anna's pinafore?—Atlantic.

Really a Serious Matter.

Two neighbors had a long litigation about a small spring, which they both claimed. The judge, wearied out with the case, at last said: "What is the use of making so much fuss about a little water?" "Your honor will see the serious nature of the case," replied one of the lawyers, "when I inform you that the parties are both milkmen."

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 2, 1915.

Despite the fact that the Pope is the most influential ecclesiastic in Christendom, his recent letter to the belligerent powers urging peace is not likely to have any sudden effect. When mad dogs are fighting it is not very useful to quote Scripture maxims and wise proverbs to them. Yet there is one feature of the letter which ought to set the statesmen of the various countries to thinking. These statesmen have been saying over and over that it is necessary to pursue the war to a finish. They say in effect that if their enemies are not utterly crushed their own national existence will end and civilization with it. With this theory the Pope takes issue. He observes that there is no such thing as crushing a nation, and since that is so, the war might as well end now as at any other time. He could have cited numberless facts to prove his contention. The whole world has tried to crush the Jews; they have been driven from their own land and led into captivity and have been mistreated in every imaginable way, but they are more powerful than ever today, while the empires of Babylon and Rome are now but names. A century ago Prussia lay prostrate at Napoleon's feet and was compelled to accede to his unjust and tyrannical demands, yet in a few generations she has become the terror of Europe. Poland was crushed and cut to pieces, but it is now evident that she will yet resume her place among the nations, since patriotism is as strong there as it is anywhere on earth. Neither the Germans, French, British, Russians or Belgians can be enslaved for more than a moment, and if apparently crushed will, as the Pope says, "prepare for revenge." Many nations have died during historic times, but these have all been cases of suicide rather than murder, since their downfall was the result of deterioration of character and was not brought about by sword or cannon. Some questions, like those which divided our own country half a century ago, can be settled by war, but the European problem is insoluble by that means.

The men who constitute what is left of the rank and file of the Progressive party must be rubbing their eyes now to see whether they are dreaming. Every little while there is a secret conference of leaders for the purpose of deciding what the future of the party shall be. The Colonel's nephew and a few others are trying to engineer a movement to switch the whole outfit over to the Republican party, and other cliques have held other secret conferences to devise means to keep the organization going. Neither side appears to have considered the propriety of leaving the decision to the registered Progressive voters themselves, which is very strange in view of the fact that the party was ostensibly organized to combat the abhorrent practice of the old-time party bosses in making secret deals. What is the good of a party, the conscientious Progressive may well ask himself, which promotes the very evils it is supposed to fight?

It is in the nature of woman to lose her head under circumstances which would cause a man only to draw upon his reserve of fortitude, which is one of the arguments against equal suffrage. It is also a reason why the authorities should be lenient with Mrs. Charles Becker for causing to be put upon her husband's coffin plate the atrocious statement that he was murdered by Governor Whitman. This consideration, however, does not apply to the men who made, sold and attached the plate. They are all cowardly sneaks unworthy to be called men. Their punishment should be such as will deter others of their kind from hiding behind a corpse to ambush character.

The full text of the Austrian request that the United States place an embargo upon exports of munitions of war and demand the right to export foodstuffs to all belligerent ports has at last been published. We have already commented upon the main points of the note, but are struck by the phrase stating that such action would "offer the great service of defeating the criminal endeavor of the enemies of Austria-Hungary and Germany to enlist starvation as an ally." Unfortunately for the authors, Dr. Karl Helfferich, Secretary of the Imperial Treasury of Germany, has just issued an official statement, saying among other things: "The British starvation war has failed. Once and for all it has been proved that our domestic production of foodstuffs, bread and system and maximum prices assure even to the poorest the necessary supply of food, and that at prices lower than prevailing in Great Britain. * * * Nor can we be 'starved out' in raw materials. * * * The spectre of unemployment has been banished. * * * So far as finances are concerned, Germany will carry the war through for an unlimited time." There is much more in the same strain, and the starvation cry is obviously played out. It would be a good plan for the Teutonic allies to take measures to avoid contradicting each other.

A FAILURE.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

In an idle moment an evening or so ago I picked up a brief little story called "An Apology to My Daughter," and it was true to life, to the very last word, so true that it would be well to pass it along to all who have any influence over young lives.

The daughter is a young woman who, at 25, has drained the last drop from her cup of marital happiness and declares life to be a "withered, bitter, hopeless failure." And as the mother reviews the young life entrusted to her care during the long years of her guidance, she realizes, in contrition and heaviness of spirit, that it is she, not the husband, who is largely responsible for the wreckage of hopes and for the specter, divorce, that stands threateningly near.

In her intensity of love, she forgot everything but the daughter who constituted her world and for whom she exacted, from herself and all else, service, devotion and the granting of every whim, never dreaming that some fatal day there must be a sorry, pitiful reckoning which would make of the happy, petted girl "the most miserable woman in the world."

In her review which probes deeply and truly, the mother brings out the glaring flaws in her handiwork from the very start, tells how she contributed to an ever-growing tendency to nervousness by indulging the baby girl in irregular and unwholesome habits. Reveling in the exquisite beauty and piquant little ways of the child, she coaxed, even bribed her to "show off," and while the little one was charming friends and gaining undue self-confidence, vanity and restlessness, she was losing in natural poise and sweetness.

Mother-pride grew apace, and at eight years the little girl had become self-centered, posing as a young queen, looking for and receiving the deference she had been fed upon all her short life. As the years multiplied, she was lifted over every rough place, spared every vexation, given every luxury and shielded from every hurt. Her lessons were all along the line of taking, never a word of giving; and she grew self-willed and thoughtless, disregardful of mother, friends, servants alike, all in the name of love. The mother recalls a few weak encounters when a futile attempt was made to influence the daughter to defer to wishes other than her own, but they ended in a brief struggle, a tempest, and defeat for the mother.

The girl was kept in ignorance of the things in life most real and true, was made a slave to social trivialities, all the while accumulating false notions of her own importance. Once in a while a glimpse of the real self would be revealed to the mother-eyes and there would be a flash of shame and of fear for the future; but she let her go on, demanding aid and offering no return.

And then the daughter married.

So far, the outside world saw her sweet, beautiful and rich in grace and charm—but so far the little coterie that constituted her world had been willing to render her all homage.

For a while the husband was content to give all, but there were other interests in his life, and when he turned to her for self-reliance, she demanded attention; when he looked for sympathy, her need came first; and when he hoped for interest in his profession, she asked for co-operation in social engagements. Never taught to modify her wishes, to make concessions, to give as well as take, what kind of genius could be expected to transform her when fully developed on lines of self?

None did. Love grew weary of all service, and love gradually died. And when the young wife declared herself "the most miserable woman in the world" and poured out the details of her unhappiness, complained of neglect, lack of sympathy and of understanding—then the mother's blindness dropped away and she realized her sad failure.

She knew she never had taught the lesson that other people might have moods and that their wishes, too, might seem supreme, never had urged the girl to learn how to live with people and for them, to serve as well as to be considered. And she was bitterly conscious she never had prepared her for disappointments, thwarting and the little wearing vexations that come, never showed her the debt she owed others of being comfortable and yielding—never pictured to her what a womanly woman might mean.

Prepared to play at life and to be the center of the stage, when the knowledge came that life was real and earnest and she must let others move about with the same easy freedom that she enjoyed, the shock left her weak and shattered, with nothing to build upon.

Do you wonder that conscious as she was of her shortcomings as a guide in spite of devoted love, the mother was ready to confess "I have made of my only child a living sacrifice?"

And the thought the story carries should sink deep down into mother-hearts and minds, for there are daughters and there are sons whose lives might have been colored with happiness, instead of being threaded with failure all through.

WORK DONE BY THE CONVENTION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Aug. 2.—That a general idea of the work of the Constitutional Convention may be known and that the impression that the delegates have done little than to gather at the capital each day there is a session to remain an hour or two and then adjourn, may be corrected, a brief digest of what has been accomplished to date is of interest. It is true that the committees have thus far performed the greater part of the work of the convention. The length and intensity of committee meetings have in some instances been a severe strain upon the members and more than one heated argument has arisen which has all but caused animosity.

There have been 689 proposed amendments to the constitution introduced by delegates, the majority of which has never progressed beyond the committee rooms, although practically all of them have been considered according to their importance. Standing committees of the convention have presented 18 additional propositions, while 40 proposed amendments have been favorably reported by standing committees. Two proposals have been defeated and not a single proposition has been passed by the committee of the whole, which action means that the subject so dealt with will be submitted to the people this fall, or possibly later in the event that the work of the delegates is not concluded their deliberations on time, for when once this composite committee has passed a proposition it goes to third reading or the order of final passage and almost invariably is approved.

It has been because the standing committees have been patently active that the work of the convention proper has been held up. There has been no waste of time, in that there have been no propositions before the delegates of late on the order of final passage. Amendments have been frequent after a proposed amendment has been favorably reported from a committee and this procedure naturally results in a temporary setback for the proposition.

On practically every night of the week there have been committee hearings of late. Some of these meetings have lasted into the early morning. This illustrates that there has been no play about the delegates are quite sensible of their duty.

For a fortnight various committees have been favorably reporting proposed amendments to the constitution which are of the utmost importance. The conservation situation has been threshed out in committee, but only after a bitter fight resulting in three minority reports. The amendment desired by Delegate-at-Large Charles H. Young of Westchester county, to the effect that after a certain period ending in 1918, those who cannot read or write shall be restricted from voting, is now on the general orders calendar as is the proposition advocated by the committee on education that every city shall have a board of education, which board shall determine the amount and direct the expenditure of all funds used for public education within its jurisdiction.

Other important proposed amendments which are awaiting the action of the convention proper are:

That the education of children shall be a state function and that no powers in derogation thereof shall be conferred upon local authorities; increasing the terms of governor to four years and making the executive ineligible to succeed himself and increasing his salary to $10,000; making public service commissioners constitutional bodies.

RUSSIAN RETREAT MERELY STRATEGY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

First official statement from any of the entente governments on the meaning of the present operations in Poland, by Victor Augagneur, minister of marine in the French cabinet:

Paris, Aug. 2.—The retreat of the Russian army does not cause us the least anxiety. It will not be long before its momentary causes disappear.

We appreciate the real value of the wise and heroic decision of the Russian general in chief not to allow himself to be shut up in fortified places, but to profit by the immense extent of the country wherein he maneuvers, destroying in his retreat many thousands of the enemy pending the time when he will resume the offensive against the exhausted Austro-Germans.

This great movement is adapted especially to the strategic conditions of the country.

On the part of all the allies, efforts by sea and land will continue constantly.

Summer Minstrels at Esopus.

The William F. Kelly Summer Concert Company journeyed to Esopus Saturday evening and presented their first show of the season to the people of that place. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity and the large audience attending was well pleased with the performance. The show opened with the big feature act, "Vacation Days," which made a decided hit from the start. Specialty acts by Miss Margaret Scherer and Frank Bailey were also warmly applauded. The audience showed its appreciation of good harmony by the way they greeted the efforts of the Columbia Comedy Quartet. This act as well as the others made a big hit and everyone was well satisfied with the performance given by this well-known and excellent company. After the show dancing was enjoyed and refreshments served. The program was as follows: "Vacation Days." Cast of characters—Teacher, Frank Oulton; Izzie Cohen, Thomas Murray; Dolly Dimple, Margaret Scherer; James Rafferty, Martin Oulton; Mary Brow, Marion Harlow; Archibald Fibbs, Frank Bailey; Sis Bimpkins, Maud Weaver; Tony Spaghetti, Edgar Harlow. Specialties—Miss Scherer, in latest ragtime hits; Frank Bailey, comic comedian. Quartet—Miss Maud Weaver, soprano; Miss Marion Harlow, alto; Frank Oulton, baritone; Edgar Harlow, bass.

Sword of Damocles.

According to a classic legend, Damocles, who lived about 400 years before Christ, was a courtier and flatterer of a tyrannical ruler named Dionysius, whom he declared the happiest man on earth. To convince him of his mistake and prove that even the office of king had its drawbacks Dionysius invited Damocles to take his place and do his job for awhile. So Damocles donned royal robes and was seated at a banquet enjoying himself when he suddenly perceived hanging over his head a sword suspended by a single horse hair, which was liable to break at any moment. This so terrified him that he immediately resigned his temporary kingship. Whether the story is true or not, it has served for a long time to point a moral. Thackeray says in "Vanity Fair," "Let us who have not our names in the red book console ourselves by thinking comfortably how miserable our betters may be and that Damocles, who sits on satin cushions and is served on gold plates, has an awful sword hanging over his head. In the shape of a baillif or hereditary disease or family secret."

Flourish on Wild Clover.

The sturdiness of the Andalusian horses is attributed to the fact that they feed on a species of wild clover which grows only in the Spanish province of Cadiz.

MASONIC FIELD DAY AT CAIRO

The Masonic Field Day to be held at the Cairo Fair grounds on Wednesday, August 4, under the auspices of Kedemah Lodge, No. 673, Free and Accepted Masons, of Cairo, promises to be one of the biggest Catskill mountain outings of the summer and many Kingston Masons are preparing to go there for a day's pleasure.

The Cairo lodge has prepared many attractions. One of the features of the day will be the three horse races which will be called at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The first race will be with local horses owned in Cairo, the second race will be a free-for-all, and the third race, which will be the most important, will be a match race between Lady Kate, owned and driven by Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins of New York, who is junior grand warden of the Grand Lodge of Masons of the State of New York, and Patty Bird, owned and driven by County Judge Albert H. F. Seeger of Newburgh. Both Judge Tompkins and Judge Seeger are expert horsemen and their many friends in Ulster county who never had an opportunity of witnessing the driving in a match race will probably avail themselves of the chance to see them at the Masonic Field Day.

Other races will include a pig race, 100-yard dash, sack race, potato race and other events.

There will also be a baseball game between the Cairo Masonic team and the Catskill Masonic team. Each team believes it can keep the other from scoring and a red-hot game is expected.

There will be various Midway attractions and a popular young lady contest for a loving cup, and the festivities will conclude in the evening with dancing and pictures at the Cairo Masonic Hall.

PUBLIC HEALTH PROMOTERS.

Meeting of American Association to Open in Rochester.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Rochester, N. Y., August 2.—The meeting of the American Public Health Association is scheduled for this city for the week of September 6. It is not only the Forty-third Annual Convention of the Public Health Association but it is also the Fifteenth Annual Conference of the Sanitary Officers of New York state, and a meeting of the State Sanitary Officers Association.

"It is certain that this will be the greatest public health gathering ever held within the State of New York," says Dr. Biggs. "The opportunity offered to health workers throughout the country is unique. The recent strides of health work throughout America and the pressing necessity for increased vigilance against epidemic diseases owing to the war in Europe, makes this conference of peculiar significance."

The preliminary announcement of the Health Association also calls attention to the serious responsibilities placed on health workers by the European war.

"Hitherto our call has been simply a stirring metaphor appealing for renewed activity and aggressiveness in the never-ending warfare against disease," says Professor William T. Sedgwick of Boston, President of the American Public Health Association. "This year—likely to be forever memorable with shame and horror—it becomes a warning for preparation and defence as well as for renewed activity looking toward ultimate prevention."

"This year we must beseech all the Americans to prepare to deal with unusual invasions of minute, mostly invisible, but often multitudinous and powerful enemies. We must defend American cities and American homes against typhus as well as typhoid, against Asiatic cholera as well as smallpox and against bubonic plague as well as Asiatic dysteria. Meanwhile, cancer, and inanition, poverty and unemployment, gluttony and intemperance, uncleanness, bad air and perverted appetites will not abate, but rather exacerbate their activities because of war and its evil influence upon public health."

"While, therefore, we hope to remain neutral witnesses of those Titanic convulsions of human nature now devastating Europe, we must be more than ever ready to bear arms and go to war but, happily, in a campaign not detested but universally applauded."

"Let us then foregather and concentrate our forces at Rochester early in September, for rearmament with an honorable company of the rapidly-growing public health army of today, and for one of the noblest causes—conservation and promotion of the public health."

GREGORY & CO.'S ANNUAL AUGUST SALE

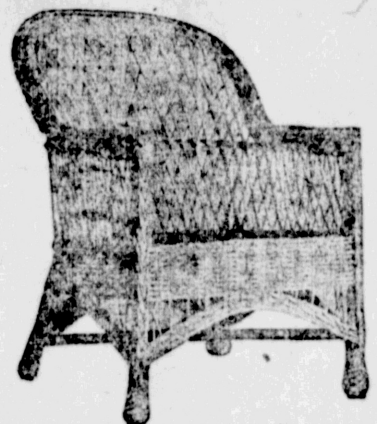

An Extraordinary Stock-Reducing Event Now in Progress!

Practical demonstration of the value-giving ability of this store will be proven by a visit here now. You will find many things that are marked at prices far below the figures for which the articles are usually sold. This is therefore a good time to make inventory of home and cottage needs and to come here prepared to provide them while you may profitably do so. We leave it to you to judge the merchandise upon its merits, feeling confident that you will appreciate the exceptional character and quality of the goods offered at the prices asked.

The reason for this sale is that we wish to pare down our stocks and thus keep them right up-to-date. Every department is involved in this stock-reducing movement. In the Furniture Department the deepest price-cuts have been made. Some pieces are reduced as much as 50 per cent—"cut in two," as it were—and 25 per cent reductions are everywhere apparent. The Floor Coverings Department, too, contributes its share of banner bargains. The Drapery and Housefurnishings Departments present golden money-saving opportunities.

OUR RIGHTS.

Our rights extend just to the place where others' rights begin and not an inch further. It is well to study the boundary lines closely. The man who "stands upon his rights" is not always a pleasant or well poised figure; he often has one foot upon his neighbor's ground.

RULES OF LIFE.

The conclusion to which I have arrived after years of observation and experience is that without temperance there is no health, without virtue no order, without religion no happiness, and that the sum of our being is to live wisely, soberly and righteously.—McDonough.

WALKER VALLEY POSTMASTER SHORT

Following the alleged discovery of a shortage in the money order department of the Walker Valley post-office said to amount to nearly $2,000, Postmaster Charles D. Mr. Buckridge has been in charge of the postoffice for nearly five years, running it in connection with a candy store. The arrest of Mr. Buckridge by the inspectors of the United States postoffice department came as a surprise to the residents of Walker Valley. Ward Eckert of that village has been placed in charge of the postoffice.

Churchill Pitches Mohonk to Shut-Out Victory Over Eddyville.

Mohonk Lake, Aug. 2.—Hampered by a wet field in the early innings, Eddyville gave Mohonk here Saturday afternoon one of the cleanest, fastest games of the season, losing 4 to 0 partly through inability to solve Churchill's delivery and partly because of two fast double plays by Mohonk. The gentlemanly conduct of the visitors was the subject of much favorable comment by the large number of Mohonk guests who witnessed the game.

Care of the Baby In Summer

Summer Complaint. [Prepared by the children's bureau, United States department of labor.]

Most mothers have learned to regard diarrhea as one of the most dangerous ills of babyhood. Thousands of babies die of this disease every year, largely in the hot weather months—a fact which has gained for this illness the common name of "summer complaint." The deaths from this disease begin to increase in May, and the number grows rapidly in June and July and reaches its highest point in August, then decreases rapidly as cool weather approaches. It is prudent, therefore, for mothers to be on guard at the beginning of summer and to do all in their power to prevent the onset of this illness by exercising great care in feeding the baby and by keeping him as cool and quiet as possible. In all illnesses prevention is far better than cure, but this is particularly true with infant diarrhea, because the second attack comes on much more readily than the first. Also the baby's growth is seriously interfered with at a time when it is proceeding most rapidly.

To prevent summer diarrhea in babies first feed the baby on the right food in suitable amounts at proper intervals and in no other way; give him plenty of pure, cool water to drink between meals; keep him out of doors as much as possible in cool, fresh air, dress him lightly and bathe him frequently.

Another important part of keeping the baby well is to protect him from flies and mosquitoes, which frequently carry disease about. It is believed that one form of infant diarrhea is distributed by these household pests.

The healthy baby usually has one or two bowel movements a day. If this number is increased to four or more it is time to take measures against sickness.

It is well to remember, however, that the bowel movements of a baby fed entirely at the breast are normally more frequent than those of a bottle-fed baby and that a slight increase in the number of movements is not so serious a matter to a baby at the breast as to one artificially fed. A baby fed at the breast does not usually have diarrhea, and when such a baby shows signs of digestive disturbance it is usually because he is overfed, either he is nursed too often or at irregular intervals, or is allowed to nurse too long at one time. When he does have diarrhea the time between nursings should be increased to four hours, and the times at the breast reduced to five or ten minutes. If the bowels continue loose the breast should be withdrawn entirely for several feedings if necessary, giving the baby instead cool drinking water at frequent intervals. In this case the mother should pump her breasts at the regular nursing times, both to keep them from drying up and to prevent their caking.

Bottle fed babies are the most frequent sufferers from summer diarrhea, and this fact furnishes another strong argument in favor of breast feeding. Diarrhea in a bottle fed baby is also best treated by reducing the amount of food. The bottle should be omitted for eight, twelve or twenty-four hours, according to the severity of the attack, and in place of the milk there should be given as much boiled and cooled water as the baby will take. Food should not be withheld for more than twenty-four hours, without the advice of a doctor. When the bottle is resumed the food should be much weaker than before, water should be substituted for at least half the milk previously given. The milk should be skimmed and the sugar omitted. The return to the former feeding should be made gradually by adding a little more milk each day and beginning to add sugar. The more severe the attack has been the more slowly should changes be made.

If the baby is on "mixed" feeding—that is, partly breast and partly bottle fed—the bottle feedings should be omitted if diarrhea appears and the breast given once in four or five hours, with nothing but drinking water between meals.

The children's bureau publishes a pamphlet called "Infant Care," which is sent free to any one sending a request to the chief of the children's bureau, United States department of labor, Washington. This pamphlet contains some simple directions for the care of the babies in summer, which may help the mother to prevent summer diarrhea and other ailments of infancy.

It should be understood that whenever possible the baby should be put at once under the care of a doctor. If the mother in the city has no physician she should take her baby to the nearest infant welfare station, where she will be well advised as to his care.

Since the country mother does not usually have access to an infant welfare station and is frequently far away from a doctor, she should use every effort to keep the baby well, but if serious diarrhea occurs a doctor must be procured without delay.

YOUNG CASH LEADING RECRUITING MARCH. FIVE YEAR OLD BOY AIDS RECRUITING IN ENGLAND.

"Young Cash," no one knows his other name, a five year old street gamin, has allied himself with the Fourth City of London Regiment, which is conducting a huge recruiting campaign and in his little uniform, supplied by the men of the regiment, proudly marches ahead of his men through the streets. The picture shows the little mascot at the head of the regiment marching to Trafalgar Square for a huge recruiting meeting.

LOST IN A GLACIER.

Fate of a Prospector Who Slipped Into a Crevasse in Alaska.

"In the winter of 1898-9," said Robert C. Losey, "I was one of a party of prospectors in Alaska. We were crossing the Rampart mountains, in central Alaska, on the way to Quail creek, from which locality had come reports of a great gold find. A member of another party near us, in going over the mountains, had broken through a crust of sand and gone down into the crevasse of a glacier.

"He had gone down a distance of thirty-eight or forty feet, where he had lodged. We could not see him, but we heard him and we talked with him. We tried to reach him with a rope and finally tied a pick to the end of the rope, hoping to bring him out. He asked us to quit pulling on the rope; that we were making his position worse. He finally pleaded with us, his voice growing fainter and fainter to go away and leave him.

"He evidently was freezing, not as we have heard, a painful death, and he did not want to be bothered. He gave us his name; said he was fifty-four years old and told us to notify his folks at some town in Missouri. We stayed there until we could hear his voice no longer.

"He certainly made a record of being the coolest man, and then he froze to death."—Indianapolis News.

Turning the Tables.

"Turning the tables" in the sense of bringing a countercharge against an accuser has a classic origin. In the days of Augustus Imperator a regular craze seized the men of Rome to compete with one another for the possession of the costliest specimens of a certain description of table made for the most part of Mauritanian wood inlaid with ivory—"mensurum insana," or table mania, as Pliny called it. They were sold at most extravagant prices. When the men accused the ladies of sumptuary extravagance the latter naturally retorted by reference to the money squandered by their lords on these tables and so "turned the tables on them" by throwing them metaphorically in their teeth.

A Remarkable Suicide.

One of the most remarkable cases of suicide was that of the king of Falaha, on the west coast of Africa.

The king was attacked by a Mohammedan force, and finding resistance impossible, he assembled his family and principal officers and after addressing them and intimating his determination never to accept Mohammedanism and inviting those who did not agree with him to go away, he applied a light to a large quantity of gunpowder collected for the purpose and blew into atoms the palace and all who were in it.

VAN AKEN APPEAL TO BE HEARD IN OCTOBER

Two sections of the Code of Criminal Procedure relate to the procedure to be followed in murder cases where an appeal is taken, and are applicable to the case of Edwin Van Aken, who was sentenced to receive the death penalty during the present week but whose execution at Sing Sing prison, where he is confined, is stayed by reason of the appeal taken by his attorney, Corporation Counsel William D. Brinnier.

The sections of the Code are as follows:

"Section 522. Appeal. How Taken. An appeal must be taken by the service of a notice in writing on the clerk with whom the judgment roll is filed, stating that the appellant appeals from the judgment."

"Section 523. Appeal. How Taken. If the appeal be taken by the defendant a similar notice must be served on the district attorney of the county in which the original judgment was rendered, and if such judgment be of death, the district attorney upon whom such notice is served must forthwith give notice thereof to the official in whose custody the defendant may be."

Van Aken's notice of appeal having been filed by Mr. Brinnier, he could not be executed in accordance with the sentence, and notice of such appeal having been communicated to Warden Osborne of Sing Sing by the district attorney, he was prevented from executing the sentence. Both Mr. Brinnier and District Attorney Cunningham having performed their duty, Van Aken will remain in the death house at Sing Sing until his appeal is determined by the court of appeals, before which trial of the case will be argued in October.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 2.—There was less vigor to the buying of stocks at the opening today than has been noticed at the beginning of the week for some time. A few issues made good gains at the start, but advances were not maintained and the general character of the market showed that it was wavering. Crucible Steel opened 1¼ lower at 67, rallied to 68 and then yielded to 66½. Advances and reactions without much net gain occurred in American Can, Republic Steel, Westinghouse and New York Air Brake during the first 15 minutes. There were indications of pool activity in a number of the low priced issues, with Allis-Chalmers the most prominent of this group. That stock opened 1¼ higher at 34, but also reacted to 33½. Inspiration Copper held well, rising ¾ to 33½. United States Steel Common opened ¼ higher at 66½ and then reacted to 66½. New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio made fractional gains.

Noon.—Business was more orderly in the late forenoon. The war order stocks were the most prominent. Bethlehem Steel, after advancing 2 points to 257, declined to 250, while Crucible Steel, after selling as low as 66, sold up to 68½. Studebaker sold up to 55½, a gain of a point for the morning. There was a strong tone in Inspiration Copper, that stock moving up ½ to 33½. General Electric advanced to 173¼ against 171½ at the close yesterday. U. S. Steel was in good demand, that stock moving up ¾ to 67¼. Money loaning at 1½ per cent.

2:30 p. m.—A firm tone pervaded the market in the late trading and issues in nearly every group were higher. American Can, which had opened at 57½, sold around 61. Bethlehem Steel, after selling at 252, rose 7 points. United States Steel, New Haven and a number of other stocks were higher.

The stock market closed steady. Governments unchanged, other bonds steady.

RATES TOO HIGH ON DYNAMITE

The Interstate Commerce Commission has handed down an important decision on a complaint filed with it last October by the Nitro Powder Company against the West Shore Railroad Company and a number of other railroads over which the Nitro Powder Company ships its dynamite to Boston and other points in New England territory.

The Interstate Commerce Commission finds that the rates charged from Kingston and Port Jervis to Boston and other New England points are unreasonable, and the railroads are directed to establish and file new tariffs for dynamite on or before October 15th, and that reparation be made to the company for freights on which such unreasonable rates have been charged, amounting to several thousand dollars.

The Commission's decision will affect not only the Nitro Powder Company but other shippers in this vicinity.

LAYING THE CLOTH.

Table Covers at One Time Were Arranged in Puffs and Folds.

In the twelfth century tablecloths were very large and were always laid on the table double. For a long time they were called "doublets" for that reason. The cloth was first placed so as to touch the floor on the side at which the guests sat; then all that remained was folded so that it just covered the table.

Charles V. had sixty-seven tablecloths, which were from fifteen to twenty yards long and two yards wide. He had one cloth thirty-two yards long, which had the arms of France embroidered on it in silk. All these were fringed.

In the sixteenth century "doublets" were replaced by two tablecloths, one of which was small and was laid just as we lay ours today. The other, which was put on over it, was large and of beautifully figured linen. It was skillfully folded in such a way that, as one chronicler tells it, "it resembled a winding river, gently ruffled by a little breeze, for among very many little folds were here and there great bubbles."

It must have required much art and care to make dishes, plates, salted, sauce dishes and glasses stand steadily in the midst of this undulating sea and among those "bubbles" and puffy folds. However, the fashion had only a short existence, and toward the latter part of the century a single cloth laid flat and touching the floor on all sides of the table came into general use.

The "Stocking Bank."

The banking of small change in stockings is strictly original with women. Men's socks extend only a trifle above the ankle and usually have holes in the heels, which make them rather unsafe repositories, while a lady's stocking, a its entrance at the knee cap, hence would be a difficult matter to draw her bank unless the "raft were duly certified by the lady herself."—Zim in Cartoons Magazine.

He Wanted the Job.

When Morris was seven years old his mother was one day reading to him about the kings of England. After she had closed the book he remained silent and thoughtful for some minutes, then asked, "Mother, do they have kings in this country?" "No, dear, don't you remember I told you we have a president here?" Another silence and then very earnestly and gravely the little fellow said, "I'm sorry about that, mother, for I was just thinking I would like to be it."—Christian Register.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, August 2.—Jack Dillon is one of that rare type of pugilists who has become so good that none of the other middleweights care to tackle him, and as a result he has been forced into semi-idleness because he cannot find pugilists who are willing to swap punches with him.

Dillon's real name is Ernest C. Ler Price. He's 24 years old and comes from Indiana. He's the only pugilist in history who named himself after a race horse. He saw the whirlwind trotter, Lou Dillon, in action several times just as he was beginning his pugilistic career.

"Lou Dillon is unbeatable," said Dillon. "I'll call myself Jack Dillon and try to perpetuate the name of Dillon among the unbeatables."

Dillon seems to have accomplished his purpose. He began fighting in 1908 and although he has engaged in more than 100 battles over a seven years' stretch he never has been knocked out or even knocked down—a record that no other pugilist can boast of over such a long span of fighting years.

Dillon started as a lightweight, but outgrew it in a few years and became a welter and later on graduated into the middleweight class.

Dillon has scored knockouts, referee or newspaper decisions over such men as Battling Levinsky, Frank Klaus, Eddie McGorty, Bob Moha, Sailor Petrosky, Buck Crouse, Tony Caponi, Jack Lester, Dick Gilbert, George (Knockout) Brown, Frank Mantell, Charles Weinert, the Newark heavyweight, George Chip, and a score of other men who rank high in the middleweight division.

Dillon's record shows him charged with only two defeats since he started fighting in 1908. One was at the hands of Eddie McGorty in 1911 and the other by Frank Klaus in 1912. Later he gave Klaus two beatings to even up matters.

The 158 pound Dillon was awarded a newspaper decision over Jim Flynn, the Pueblo freeman—the same man who held the 210 pound Jim Coffey to a draw in their recent bout in New York.

"I'm having a pretty tough time of it just now getting fights," said Dillon. "The other middleweights don't seem to want any of my stuff. I hate to get rusty and if I can't coax McGorty, Levinsky, Clabby or some of the others into the ring with me, I'll go after the heavyweights."

A different crop of fighters were harvested in the old days. In these days the first consideration of a fighter is the mazzuma. In the past the last thought was money.

Many years ago Jack Dempsey fought Jack Fogarty with skin tight gloves in the woods near New York city. The fight was for a side bet and purse—winner to take all.

Fogarty put up a wonderful fight, but in the twenty-seventh round Dempsey shot a terrific swing to Fogarty's jaw and Fogarty went down for the count.

When Fogarty revived he saw several of the spectators passing the hat. "Why are they doing that?" he asked, through his bleeding, swollen lips.

"They're taking up a collection for you," was the answer.

"Tell them to stop it—stop quick," snapped Fogarty. "I don't deserve any money. I appreciate the spirit of the boys, and their kindly intent, but I lost and I don't deserve any money. And although several hundred dollars were collected and presented Fogarty he refused to accept it."

LOCAL BASEBALL DOINGS.

Games Played or to be Played by the Home Teams.

The attendance on Saturday afternoon at the baseball game between the Red Monograms of this city and the Tivoli baseball team was not as large as expected but those present saw a good game. The Tivolis won the game by a score of 9 to 4. Scherer and Robins were in the points for the Red Monograms and Dickout and Morgan for Tivoli. The proceeds were for the work being carried on at the Federation House.

The Red Monograms defeated the Rhinebeck baseball team on Sunday afternoon at McVey's field by a score of 9 to 4. Clarke and Robins were in the points for the Red Monograms while Deegan and Schirck done the honors for the Rhinebecks.

Next Sunday the Red Monogram baseball team will run an excursion to Tivoli on the steamer Bunker, leaving Rondout at 1 o'clock. At Tivoli the Red Monograms will cross bats with the team of that place. Tickets may be secured of the members of the team.

KINGSTON'S CONEY WELL PATRONIZED

Sandy Beach is rapidly regaining its popularity of former years and during the past few days the intense heat has caused several hundred of Kingston's young folks to seek its pleasures each day. The beach is Kingston's Coney Island bathing ground and is a long strip of fine sandy beach located at Kingston Point. Sandy Beach is easily reached by trolley car, the visitor to the beach alighting from the car at the entrance to Kingston Point Park and walking across the road and over the new ball grounds being laid out for the Knights of Columbus to the upper side of the ice house.

Back in the nineties, if the writer's memory serves him aright, there were bathing houses erected on the beach and for a nominal sum one could use the bath houses and enjoy a dip in the river. For a while the bath houses were well patronized but for some reason patronage began to drop off and after a season or so the bath houses were removed and the project given up by its promoters. From then on the beach was but infrequently used and then only by boys and young men, until this summer when the beach is being frequented by members of both sexes.

A number of people have taken advantage of the beach, which is one of the finest along the Hudson river, and have erected tents along the shore which are used to dress in. The absence of bath houses has also been overcome by residents in that vicinity allowing the young women who wish to bathe to change their clothes in their houses, charging a nominal sum of ten cents for the privilege. The boys and young men, however, disrobe back of the huge rock that juts out near the ice house, and leave their clothes lying in a heap on the beach while they dive into the river.

Lately the young men who bathe at the beach have found it wise to only carry with them enough change to ride home on the trolley cars as sneak thieves rifle the clothes lying on the banks and take whatever loose change they can find as well as other valuables. There is nothing more mean and contemptible than a sneak thief and if caught they will undoubtedly be used harshly by the bathers.

During the past few days the hot weather has caused a number of mothers to form family parties and take the youngsters down to the beach to cool off and enjoy a plunge in the waters. Not only the young folks but the older folks are also enjoying a dip in the river these days and it is not unusual for a number of girls to get together and form a bathing party and spend the afternoon at the beach.

Although there is no officer stationed at the beach the best of order has been maintained by the bathers and the rough necks if they visit the beach for a wonder know enough to behave themselves.

As the fame of the good times at the beach is spreading around the city the attendance is gradually increasing and day after day still larger numbers are enjoying the afternoon at Sandy Beach.

High Falls Wins.

Mohawk Lake, Aug. 2.—High Falls came back Friday determined to win—and did it 2 to 0 in a fine, fast game. If High Falls did have the assistance of considerable imported talent, including Roney, who pitched finely, it only made the game a better one. Roney allowed Mohonk only two infield hits and had the situation under control from the start. The game abounded in thrilling plays, the best of which was the triple play started by Delamater's running catch of what seemed a safe hit. Fletcher and Turner assisting in retiring the side. Ghear made a remarkable catch of Owl's long fly, securing the ball only by falling backward into the woods. Each side added one double play to the record.

The Mystics Won.

In a fast and exciting game of baseball Sunday the Mystics team defeated the fast Miller bunch in a ten inning game by a score of 5 to 3. The feature of the game was Freer, the Mystics right fielder, when he made a running one hand stab of Soper's long drive, which would have been good for a home run. The score:

Living Chess.

The game of "living chess" has been given frequently in out of door fetes. The ground is marked in squares, like a huge chessboard, and the pieces are represented by women and men in costumes that indicate their positions—queens, bishops, knights, pawns, etc. The game is played by the directions of two persons seated on thrones at the edge of the board, the pieces making the moves indicated by them.

LLOYD GEORGE APPEALS TO PATRIOTISM OF WELSH MINERS TO SETTLE COAL STRIKE.

London, Aug. 2.—Minister of Munitions, David Lloyd-George has appealed to the patriotism of the Welsh coal miners in an effort to settle the coal strikes. In a speech at the London Opera House, at which 3,000 delegates from the mining centers of Great Britain were present he said: "Coal means life for us and death for our enemies. Steam means coal. Rifles mean coal, shells are filled with coal, the very explosive inside them is coal, and coal carries them right on to the battlefield to help our men. Coal means everything to us and we want more of it to win the victory."

He continued: "You men must not shrink from your duty. We must pay the price of victory if we mean to get it. The peril our country faces is great, the demand for coal is great and the supply of labor is diminished." Both miners and mine owners were represented at the meeting.
